OVERVIEW

As a successful insurance defense firm, Shuman McCuskey Slicer PLLC is well-positioned to defend clients in all product liability cases. Our products liability team has the necessary resources and knowledge to litigate highly complex products liability cases. Our attorneys defend clients in a wide variety of products liability cases, ranging from consumer products to multi-million-dollar defective products litigation.

Regardless of how vigilant and safety-conscious they are, manufacturers must always be prepared to defend against product liability claims. As experienced trial attorneys, we are always prepared to defend our clients in state and federal trial courts and, if necessary on appeal. We know how costly a lawsuit can be and work diligently on our clients' behalf to ensure we are defending them in the most cost-effective way. To lessen client expenses, we always seek successful alternative dispute resolution when possible. However, we are always prepared to defend our clients aggressively in court.

Shuman McCuskey Slicer PLLC acts as regional counsel and litigation managers for several large national manufacturers for matters in regularly targeted industries. Our products liability team works with our clients on the front end to prevent liability cases from arising in the first place.

Our products liability defense attorneys have handled cases involving both industrial and general consumer goods, including hoists, cranes, machines, presses, fireworks, firearms, chemical cleansers, appliances, children's products, motorcycles, all-terrain vehicles, automobiles, as well as pharmaceuticals such as FenPhen, Rezulin, and OxyContin, and flawed medical devices.
